PRISM International, Inc. Joins Global Strategic Engagement Firm Talent Dimensions

SANFORD, FL (June 4, 2018) – PRISM International, Inc. is pleased to announce the sale of its diversity and inclusion (D&I) firm to the global talent management organization, Talent Dimensions. Founded by Linda Stokes, PRISM has assisted hundreds of organizations in 24 countries by providing best-in-class D&I solutions.

“Since 1992, I’ve been honored to lead a team of dedicated professionals who have demonstrated organizational diversity, inclusion and cross-cultural knowledge and experience, compassion and commitment to be the change that makes the difference,” said Linda Stokes, Founder of PRISM. “The same level of commitment can be seen in the professionals at Talent Dimensions. Because of this, there is already great synergy between our organizations and we look forward to bringing expanded offerings to all our clients.”

Headquartered in Greensboro, NC, Talent Dimensions provides innovative, practical and application-rich solutions in the areas of employee engagement, career development, leadership development, and the identification and development of key roles inside organizations for the strategic retention of its most critical talent.

“We know the retention of talent is complex and requires a dynamic set of strategies to engage individual contributors who are critical to the success of any organization,” said Cile Johnson, Chief Business Officer for Talent Dimensions. “By expanding our portfolio of offerings to include diversity and inclusion, Talent Dimensions is poised to help organizations propel to new levels of performance through all their people.”

In support of the transition, co-author of Leading in Black and White and Dear White Boss Ancella Livers has joined the team as President of PRISM. Previously, Livers managed the African American and Women’s Leadership Programs at the Center for Creative Leadership® Also during her tenure at CCL, she led their largest global business unit and later consulted and developed tailored solutions for their Fortune 500 client base. In addition, Livers led the Institute for Leadership Development and Research at the Executive Leadership Council.

PRISM International, Inc. will continue to operate in Sanford, FL, as part of the Talent Dimensions organization.
